Graphic Design and Marketing The London Chorus

The London Choral Society (now The London Chorus) was formed in 1903 to perform Elgar's Dream of Gerontius. 114 years later it's still one of the largest choirs in the UK under the direction of Ronald Corp. It has had many famous musical directors including Sir Simon Rattle and Jane Glover.

The London Chorus perform regularly on TV and Radio, and at iconic venues such as The Royal Albert Hall, Barbican and Southbank.

Jonathan Harbourne sang in the choir for some years, and then became trustee, and later Marketing Director. The aim, which he fulfilled successfully, was to boost numbers attending their own TLC-produced concerts.

STABAT MATER

Domenico Scarlatti

The 'Stabat Mater' is perhaps Scarlatti's best-known choral work and was written in 1715 before he left Rome. It is written for 10 voices and continuo and shows the use of any conceivable instrument as well as any double-choir writing, using solo voices emerging from the polyphonic texture to emphasise expressive passages. The austerity and reflective quality of the work stand out against the bel canto mode prevalent at the time and convey the composer's spiritual intentions to the full. Barry Cressy.

SATURDAY 5TH MAY 7PM

ST. BARTHOLOMEW'S CHURCH, ANN STREET, BRIGHTON

THE LONDON CHORUS - MUSICAL DIRECTOR: RONALD CORP, KEYBOARDS: ALEXANDER WELLS

Welcome to St Bartholomew's, Brighton

I am delighted to introduce this informed guide to St Bartholomew, Brighton, one of the great churches of the nineteenth century - the cathedral of what used to be called the "London-Brighton and South Coast Religion" with its incense, ritual, embroidered vestments and lights.

The fabric itself is a masterpiece of brickwork and a credit to its little-known architect, Edmund Scott. The fittings, great baldachino and silver side altar by Henry Wilson, the font and the stained glass lancets complement each other and enhance the building. Only Holy Trinity, Sloane Street, in London, compares with it as a monument in richness of fittings belonging to that inventive time of the Art Workers Guild which immediately succeeded William Morris.

In the noise and glitter of cheerful Brighton, this great church is a tall sanctuary of peace. Its interior awes beholders to silence.

Sir John Betjeman

Ronald Corp

Ronald Corp is Founder and Artistic Director of the New London Orchestra which celebrated its 21st birthday in 2009. He is also Musical Director of the New London Children's Choir, The London Chorus and the Highgate Choral Society. He has conducted various orchestras including the BBC Scottish Symphony Orchestra, the Royal Scottish National Orchestra, the RTE Orchestra, the Ulster Orchestra, the Scottish Chamber Orchestra and the Leipzig Philharmonic Orchestra, and works with numerous choirs including the BBC Singers. He has recorded for Hyperion and Dutton with the New London Orchestra and other orchestras.

"Dhammapada is a choral piece of exceptional beauty and spirituality - a collaboration between renowned choral composer and Anglican priest, Ronald Corp, and Buddhist writer, Francis Booth. Dhammapada - meaning "the path to the truth" - contains the words of the Buddha, compiled by his followers after his death 2,500 years ago. It contains the Buddha's key messages expressed in striking and beautiful images. It is spiritual without being religious - a manual for living a good life. Although it is the core text in Buddhism, it has never before been set to Western music.

"Corp's music is both meditative and inspiring, capturing perfectly the soothing and didactic nature of the Buddha's words. It is entrancing a cappella music. The eight choral movements are interspersed with recordings of bells from important Buddhist sites. These two aspects of the work, as it was originally conceived, produce an effect of simplicity and wonderment, immediately transporting the listener to a more serene state of mind."

Dhammapada received its world premiere at the CD launch concert in the Village Underground, Shoreditch, London on Sunday, 6th February, 2011, in a presentation by Vignette Productions.

The London Chorus

The London Chorus is London's most versatile choir, practising and performing a challenging and varied repertoire and continually developing its tradition of excellence. Since its foundation in 1903 to give the first London performance of the Dream of Gerontius it has performed in all the major London venues as well as concert halls in the UK and abroad and made many successful recordings with The New London Orchestra for Hyperion Records. The choir works for a variety of promoters and with major orchestras and ensembles.

During recent seasons, performances have included Bach's St Matthew Passion, Mozart's C minor Mass, Handel's Israel in Egypt, Berlioz' Te Deum, Video Games Live, The X-Factor for ITV, three charity concerts of African music, music for the Queen's Birthday Party at the British Embassy in Tallinn, Christmas music in The Long Room at Lords and Handel's Coronation Anthems.

Last season's concerts include Brahms Requiem, the world premiere of Corp's The Hound of Heaven and Handel's Messiah at Cadogan Hall, The Glory of Christmas at The Royal Albert Hall, Rachmaninov Vespers at St Alban's Holborn and African Sanctus at St Martin in the Fields.

The choir have toured in Italy, France and Estonia and made their first official visit to South Africa to perform in Cape Town and Johannesburg in association with the African children's charity Footballs For Fun. On their return to London, The London Chorus sang with Russell Watson on 3rd May and performed Mahler's Symphony No. 8 in the Royal Albert Hall on 15th May. The choir joined the Highgate Choral Society to celebrate Musical Director Ronald Corp's 60th Birthday in the Royal Festival Hall in July. The choir began their 2011-2012 season with a trip to Beverley Minster in Yorkshire to perform Verdi's Requiem.

Recordings with The New London Orchestra and Ronald Corp are a regular feature in the choir's calendar.

The London Chorus is available for hire for concerts or in smaller groups for corporate or social events. Please contact Prius Corp, Concert Manager on 07710 275331 or the Chorus Administrator, Fergus Unquhart on 0798 618 5757.

Joining The London Chorus

From Mozart to Mahler, The Royal Albert Hall to X-Factor, recording studios, Twickenham rugby stadium to outdoor ice rinks, the life of The London Chorus member is never dull! We frequently perform in high profile concerts in top London venues (alongside professional orchestras and the cream of young solo talent). The choir also undertakes smaller 'gigs' for a wide range of clients, and organises regular concert tours abroad (recent destinations have included Brussels, Milan, Estonia and Cape Town).

The London Chorus

London's most versatile choir, performing since 1903

The London Chorus

The London Chorus is London's most versatile choir, practising and performing a challenging and varied repertoire and continually developing its tradition of excellence. The 120 members of the choir are singers from all walks of life, but performances are at the highest professional level. Singing with The London Chorus provides an unparalleled opportunity for amateurs to work with the most prestigious orchestras, conductors and soloists in the world. The London Chorus regularly performs at The Royal Albert Hall, Cadogan Hall, Royal Festival Hall and St John's, Smith Square, in a wide variety of locations from the Rugby League Cup Finals to Beverley Minster to ITV for the X-Factor.

The London Chorus was established in 1903 and has been performing in London and around the world for well over 100 years. It gave the first public performance of Elgar's The Dream of Gerontius in London, the choir established its tradition of innovation right from the start, giving a number of first performances in its early years. This has continued up to the present day: in recent years the choir has promoted the first London performances of works by Samuel Barber, Frank Martin, Richard Blackford, Ronald Corp and others. It performs an extremely wide repertoire ranging from plainsong, through the mainstream choral repertoire, to music of the present day, both classical and on the lighter side. The choir has had such eminent musical directors as Simon Rattle and Jane Glover. For the past 25 years The London Chorus has been under the baton of composer and director Ronald Corp.

Become a sponsor

The London Chorus has a rich cultural history, and we are seeking to form a partnership with a company with whom we can form a strong, lasting and rewarding relationship – for both parties. The package would be bespoke, serving the needs of the sponsor, but such benefits could include tickets for your key clients and staff for our TLC-produced performances, meet-and-greet the conductor and soloists, private performances at your corporation's functions (such as Christmas party) and engaging your staff with our members: working with them to put on their own performance. We could help you meet your fundraising goals by performing a fundraising gala concert to raise money for your causes. Our varied repertoire would suit many types of corporate function and hospitality.

Private Booking

The London Chorus is often hired by producers and promoters to perform concerts. Our regular Raymond Gubbay Christmas Gala at the Royal Albert Hall is one such event, but we also perform regularly for TV and radio, including X-Factor, Rugby League Cup Finals and Songs of Praise, as well as leading orchestras, soloists (Russell Watson, José Carreras) and concert halls. You may also find members of the choir singing Christmas carols at Waterloo Station, raising money for charity, or by one of the seasonal out-door ice-rinks in London.

Use us for fundraising

There's no better way to reach your fundraising targets than by hiring the choir to put on a concert for your donors. In 2011 a charity in Yorkshire beat their goal to raise funds for a hospital scanner, the event that pushed them over the finish line was a gala concert attended by local VIPs and dignitaries, The London Chorus was the main choir. We are so pleased and proud to have helped this organisation reach their target, and everyone had such a great time. Our close relationship with the New London Orchestra gives us access to musicians as well as our own rising star soloists. Our concert manager can even advise you on venues.

Team Harmony workshop

For any organisation, effective teamwork and leadership provide the foundations from which the organisation as a whole can work to achieve competitive advantage. The way in which people work together is the key to organisational success. The London Chorus has developed a training event that fits this requirement. The presentation, which is tailored to the client's needs, is designed to be enjoyable and entertaining as well as instructive, and explores the use of the choir as a metaphor for the organisation.

The London Chorus, like all arts organisations, actively seeks and welcomes support from the commercial sector in order to support its activities. Our aim is that both parties will benefit from such support. To this end, we are delighted to work with companies to put together a bespoke package which might involve, for example, our innovative Team Harmony Workshop, members of the choir singing Christmas carols at your corporation's event, or the opportunity for your staff to come and sing with us. An introductory video is available on our web site www.londonchorus.org.uk – go to "Join" and then "Private Bookings"

Partners

The London Chorus regularly performs sell-out concerts holding the stage alone, sometimes a capella. For other occasions it is accompanied by orchestras or joined by other choirs. Our Musical Director, Ronald Corp, runs other groups that we often work with:

New London Orchestra

Recent collaborations have included Handel's 'Messiah' in the City of London and at Cadogan Hall in a concert of music by Gilbert & Sullivan and Haydn's 'Theresienmesse'. NLO's most recent recording collaboration was the world premiere recording of Rutland Boughton's opera, 'The Queen of Cornwall', a recording that was 'Disc of the Month' in the March 2011 edition of Open magazine and 'Editor's Choice' in the influential Gramophone magazine in September 2011.

The New London Children's Choir

Launched by Ronald Corp in 1991, the Choir has appeared in all the major London concert halls with the UK's finest symphony orchestras and conductors, has collaborated with opera companies in the UK and abroad, and has made dozens of recordings and broadcasts, including its latest release The Ice Mountain on Naxos and its disc recorded in 2009.

Volunteer Engagement

As I was a singer and trustee of The London Chorus, I wasn't being paid, and the time commitment was considerable. I analysed and listed all the tasks (see 'One Small Thing' poster) – and encourage everyone to take on one task by filling in an index card and taking a badge.

There were over 60 tasks, but some could be accomplished in under ten minutes, and there were 130 choir members.

Example index card: managing the Twitter account

Bach's Magnificat Howard Blake THE PASSION OF Mary

Thursday 15th March 2012 – 6:30pm St Alban's, 18 Brooke Street, Holborn, London EC1

Bach's "Magnificat" and Howard Blake's "The Passion of Mary"

Thursday 15 March 2012, 7:00pm
Bach's "Magnificat" and Howard Blake's "The Passion of Mary"
St Alban's, 18 Brooke Street, Holborn, EC1
The New London Orchestra
Tickets £20 £15 £10

The Bach Magnificat is one of his greatest choral pieces and is scored for five soloists, chorus and orchestra including trumpets and timpani.

Howard Blake is a popular and prolific composer whose output includes film scores (not least the extraordinarily successful The Snowman), choral, orchestral and instrumental works, ballets and operas.

Mary's Song draws together various Marian texts including the Magnificat and the Stabat Mater and the work will be receiving only its second performance.

Doors open at 6:30pm. Refreshments are served in the Church Hall after the performance.

Howard Blake interviewed on Songs of Praise "The Big Sing" on Christmas day 2011 with The London Chorus.

The London Chorus is a registered charity, we continue through the generous donations of our friends. Find out more.

The London Chorus is London's most versatile choir, practising and performing a challenging and varied repertoire and continually developing its tradition of excellence. Formerly known as The London Choral Society, the 120 members of the choir are amateur singers from all walks of life, but performances are at the highest professional level.

Singing with The London Chorus provides an unparalleled opportunity for amateurs to work with the most prestigious orchestras, conductors and soloists in the world. They regularly perform at The Royal Albert Hall, Cadogan Hall, Royal Festival Hall and St John's, Smith Square, in a wide variety of locations from the Rugby League Cup Finals to Beverley Minster to ITV for the X-Factor.

The London Chorus was established in 1903 and has been performing in London and around the world for well over 100 years. It performed the first public concert of Elgar's The Dream of Gerontius in London, has had such eminent musical directors as Simon Rattle and Jane Glover. For over 25 years The London Chorus has been under the baton of composer and director Ronald Corp.

George Frideric Handel (1685-1759)

From Wikipedia

George Frideric Handel (German: Georg Friedrich Händel) (23 February 1685–14 April 1759) was a German-British Baroque composer, famous for his operas, oratorios, anthems and organ concertos. Handel was born in 1685, in a family indifferent to music. He received critical musical training in Halle, Hamburg and Italy before settling in London (1712) and becoming a naturalised British subject in 1727. By then he was strongly influenced by the great composers of the Italian Baroque and the middle-German polyphonic choral tradition.

Within fifteen years, Handel, a dramatic genius, started three commercial opera companies, to supply the English nobility with Italian opera, but the public came to hear the vocal bravours of the soloists rather than the music. In 1737 he had to deal with a physical breakdown, changed direction and addressed middle class. As Alexander's Feast (1738) was received well Handel made a transition to English choral works. After his success with Messiah (1742) he never performed an Italian opera again. Handel was partly successful with his performances of English Oratorio on mythical or biblical themes, but when he arranged a performance of Messiah to benefit the Foundling Hospital (1750) the critique ended. The pathos of Handel's oratorio is an ethical one, they are hallowed not by liturgical dignity but by the moral ideals of humanity. Almost blind, and having lived in England for almost fifty years, he died a respected and rich man.

Handel is regarded as one of the greatest composers of all time, not only because of his Water Music, and Music for the Royal Fireworks. But since the late 1960s, with the revival of baroque music and original instrument interest in Handel's opera seria has revived too. Handel composed forty operas in about thirty years; some are considered as masterpieces, with many sweeping arias and much admired improvisations. His operas contain remarkable human characterisation, by a composer not known for his love affairs.

Handel's compositions include 42 operas, 29 oratorios, more than 120 cantatas, trios and duets, numerous arias, chamber music, a large number of ecumenical pieces, odes and serenades, and 16 organ concertos. His most famous work, the oratorio Messiah with its "Hallelujah" chorus, is among the most popular works in choral music and has become the centrepiece of the Christmas season. Among the works with opus numbers published and popularised in his lifetime are the Organ Concertos Op.4 and Op.7, together with the Opus 3 and Opus 6 concerti grossi; the latter incorporate an earlier organ concerto The Guckoo and the Nightingale in which birdsong is imitated in the upper registers of the organ. Also notable are his sixteen keyboard suites, especially The Harmonious Blacksmith.

George Frideric Handel (1685-1759) an engraving from the 1800s. German Baroque composer best known for his operas, oratorios and concertos. Engraved by J. Thomson and published in London by Charles Knight, Pall Mall East.

George Frideric Handel, born in the same year as Johann Sebastian Bach and Domenico Scarlatti.

The Royal Albert Hall

The Royal Albert Hall was built to fulfil the vision of Prince Albert (Queen Victoria's consort) of a "Central Hall" that would be used to promote understanding and appreciation of the Arts and Sciences and would stand at the heart of the South Kensington estate, surrounded by museums and places of learning.

The Hall is a Grade I Listed building; and has been in continuous use since it was opened in March 1871. It was always conceived as a multipurpose building to host not only concerts of music but exhibitions, public meetings, scientific conferences and award ceremonies. It is a registered charity held in trust for the nation but is financially self sufficient: it receives no funding from central or local government.

The list of famous performers and world figures who have appeared at the Royal Albert Hall since it opened in 1871 is unrivalled. Wagner, Verdi and Elgar conducted the first UK performance of their own works on its concert platform. Rachmaninov played his own compositions and nearly every major classical solo artist and leading orchestra has performed at the Hall.

The list of popular music artists includes Frank Sinatra, Liza Minnelli, Jimi Hendrix, The Beatles, Oscar Peterson, The Who, Led Zeppelin, Eric Clapton, Sting and Elton John and from a younger generation Jay Z, Kaiser Chiefs and the Killers.

Among leading world figures who have spoken at the Hall are Her Majesty The Queen, Sir Winston Churchill, Nelson Mandela, His Holiness The Dalai Lama and former President of the United States of America, Bill Clinton.

The Hall has an extensive archive of programmes, posters and other memorabilia but is always interested to hear from people who

THE BUILDING
A great Central Hall, dedicated to the promotion of Art and Science, was a key part of Prince Albert's vision for the South Kensington estate, which was to be developed on land purchased with the profits of the Great Exhibition of 1851. From the outset the Hall was intended to be a versatile building used not only for concerts but for exhibitions of art and of manufactured goods, and for scientific conferences and demonstrations. Its purpose was to enable the population at large to engage with the work of the surrounding museums and educational institutions.

Plans for the Hall fell into abeyance with Albert's premature death and the construction of what was to be called the Royal Albert Hall in his memory was due to the determination of Henry Cole, one of Albert's collaborators in the Great Exhibition and who was later to serve as the first director of the South Kensington museum (now the Victoria and Albert Museum). The design and robust structure of the Hall were inspired by Cole's visits to the ruined Roman Amphitheatres in the South of France and to his determination that the building should be placed in the hands of Royal Engineers as he distrusted architects. Detailed design of the building was started by Captain Francis Fowke and completed, following Fowke's death, by another engineer Lieutenant Colonel (subsequently General) Henry Darnacott Scott.

The original intention that the Hall should accommodate 30,000 was, for financial and practical reasons, reduced to approximately
